

“Just Because We Can, Should We?”

Science is a wonderful thing; new advances are always being made. Are these advances always positive? Explain.

Do you believe there should be an imaginary line that is drawn when it comes to making advances in science?

In regards to altering genes and making clones, do you think that we, as a society, have crossed the line? Is it fair to say that enough is enough already and that we need to stop?

Vocabulary:

Word	Part of Speech	Definition (in your own words)	Sentence from the text complacency
malevolence
perilous
inevitable
impediment
myopic
reverberate			